Who did they help Accomplish More: Striven Product & Striven Development Team

Comments:

Henry joined the Striven team during the summer as an intern. On day 1 he had already researched what I had told him he would possibly work on when he joins and within no time was able to create a proof of concept related to that. Right at that moment we knew we had a go-getter in him, but he far exceeded that expectation as well. You can just tell him what you need and the next thing you know he is sending you a link to try it out. He excels in R&D, fast turnaround time and impeccable documentation skills. In this short period everyone in our team has come to rely on him.

One of the examples that is worth sharing is the Striven editor that we are going to use very soon. It is available in our Striven Open Source project. Please check it out: <https://github.com/striven-erp/striven-editor>

Great work Henry! Let me find something else for you to work on!!! :D
